No 427.

By our laſt arrived the Mails due from Holland and France.

LETTERS of Sept. 20. O. S. from Conſtantinople ſay, 'twas then publickly given out there, that the Peace between the Grand Signior and the new Sophy of Perſia, was actually concluded and ſign'd; and that 'tis thereby ſtipulated among other Articles, 'That the limits of the two Empires ſhall be the ſame as they were in the Reign of the Sultan Amurath; that the Perſians ſhall hereafter have free Acceſs to Mecca; that the Grand Signior ſhall acknowledge Thamas Kouli Kan for Sophy of Perſia, and employ his Arms againſt any Power whatſoever, that diſputes his Poſſeſſion of the Throne; and that the Priſoners on both Sides ſhall forthwith be ſet at Liberty.' —— But they have not yet thought fit to make the other Articles publick.

Whether this News be certain, a Poſt or two will determine: Mean time the laſt Letters which Sir Edward Faulkener, the Britiſh Envoy at Conſtantinople, ſent to his Majeſty at Hanover, make it probable, that if the Peace be not already concluded, it will very ſoon, and that Ruſſia will be compriſed in it, the rather, becauſe the Czarina being convinced by Experience, how dear it will coſt her to be Maſter of the Crim Tartary as ſhe had intended, is willing to content herſelf with the Fortreſs of Oczakow, which, to be ſure, the Porte will reſign to her without any Scruple, conſidering that 'tis out of their Power to take it from her by Force.

They write from Petersburg, that the Officer who was ſent to the Turks Army with a Letter from the Count d'Oſterman to the Grand Vizier, is returned from him with his Anſwer; but what it is, remains a Secret. —— This Officer confirms, that the Turks Army is in a lamentable Plight; that it conſiſted of Men picked up in Hatte, and that the only Troops that make any thing of an Appearance are the Janizaries. He adds, that he was very handſomly received by the Turks, lodg'd in a magnificent Tent, and that his Interpreter being killed by the Running, they immediately appointed him another.

The Ruſſian Court has received Letters ſince his Arrival, dated the 9th of Sept. O. S. which ſay, that the Turks are entered into Winter Quarters, that the Grand Vizier ſet out for Conſtantinople. The Army under the Velt Marſhal de Laſcy, has taken their Winter Quarters along the Rivers of Don and Wolga, and Count Munich's is diſtributed into the Towns ſituate near the Boriſthenes, towards the Frontiers of Ukraine, and the general Head Quarters are at Kiow. The Count having reviewed every Regiment before the Army ſeparated, it appears that the Loſs of the Men is not ſo conſiderable as was at firſt apprehended, becauſe moſt of the Sick, whoſe Number was very great, are recovered; but they have loſt above 10,000 Horſes. The Kraſnow of the Don, whoſe Advantages over the Turks were lately mentioned, is declared Attaman or Chief of the Coſſacks of the Don. The Czarina intended him a Preſent of a Sum in Conſideration of his Services; but 'tis ſaid, that when the Preſent was made, he declared, that if her Imperial Majeſty would make him a Preſent of a Sword, he ſhould like it much better.

The great General of the Crown Army of Poland, Count Wiſnowiſki, wrote Letters to his Friends at Warſaw, importing, that while the two Tartarian Envoys ſtopp'd at Biſtrawo, he took an Opportunity to make ſome Remonſtrances to them, againſt the Incurſions made by the Tartars into the Poliſh Ukraine, and even into the Lands of the Republick; whereupon the Chief of thoſe Envoys, without touching on that Head, made Anſwer, 'That the Ruſſians had deſtroyed ſome of their Habitations and carried off their Cattle, but that the Great Kan and his Allies, in particular the Sublime Porte, wou'd ſhortly find a Condition to make a Repriſal, and to make it double the Ravages in Ruſſia, which the Muſcovites have done in Tartary; and that if the Tartars in their Expedition which they have concerted to take Revenge on Ruſſia, ſhould be under a Neceſſity of paſſing thro' the Territories of the Republick, the Troops ſhould be forbid to commit any Outrage therein, upon Pain of Death.'

Letters from Hungary ſay, that the March of Count Palfi's Army to the Frontiers of Turky, had cauſed ſo great an Alarm in the open Country, that moſt of the Inhabitants were retir'd into the ſtrong Places with their beſt Effects; and that the Turks, upon the News of the Germans Approach, were aſſembling all the Troops they can muſter on that Side, and had reinforced the Gariſon of Widin to 12,000 Men. And there's Advice from Belgrade in particular, that the Grand Vizier has brought his Army back over the Danube, that it may be in a Readineſs to obſerve the Motions of the Imperialiſts.

They have a Report at Vienna, that a new Affair is ſtarted betwixt the Imperial Court and that of France with regard to the Titles of King Staniſlaus. 'Tis ſaid that the French Court demands of the Emperor to guaranty, that the King and Republick of Poland ſhall always give King Staniſlaus the Title of Staniſlaus I. King of Poland, and Great Duke of Lithuania. They add, that the French Court looks upon this Condition as eſſential to the Execution of the Preliminaries of the Peace; and 'tis even reported, that the Emperor conſents to ſuch Guaranty for King Auguſtus's Part, but deſires to be excuſed from entering into any ſuch Engagement for the Republick of Poland.

They write from Ratisbon, that Count Chalconi, who forms Pretenſions to Swabia, had now trump'd up new Titles, and preſented another Memorial to the Dyet, wherein he forms great Demands upon the Dutchy of Milan, and pretends to be deſcended from the ancient Kings of France, Spain, Navarre and Arles.

They tell us from Copenhagen, that as their Daniſh Majeſties lately return'd out of Town to Fredericksbourg, Medals were ſcatter'd among the Populace from the Auditory to the Weſt Gate of that City; and that two great Medals were, at the ſame time, diſtributed to the Miniſters and other Officers of the Court. One of the Medals had the King's Buſt on one Side, and this Inſcription, Chriſtian VI. King of Denmark, &c. and on the Reverſe, As the Light of the Goſpel appear'd here above 200 Years ago, for which Favour we moſt heartily thank God. 1736. Oct. 31. And on the other Medal was repreſented a Church, and underneath it the Pope's Tripple Crown, a Cardinal's Hat, &c. with a Perſon lifting up his Hands to Heaven; and round the ſaid Medal were ſome Latin Words, ſignifying I have delivered you out of the Houſe of Bondage.

It appears by the Letters from Italy, that the Genoeſe are not in much Pain about the pretended Succours ſo much boaſted by Baron Theodore, which they ſuppoſe to be only a Chimæra of that Gentleman, to keep the Rebels a little longer in Heart, who they doubt not, will ſooner or later, accept of the Pardon, and of the Advantagious Offers made to them by the Republick. The Genoeſe therefore reſolve to keep on the Defenſive, in order to ſave both their Men and their Money, and will content themſelves with providing the four fortify'd Places which they have in that Iſland, and the Towers upon the Coaſt, with all Neceſſaries.

According to the Letters from Leghorn of the 9th ult. O. S. the Duke de Montemar's Equipage was put on board ſome Veſſels to be tranſported to Spain, and he himſelf has Orders to repair thither forthwith; but there was no Appearance of the Departure of the Spaniſh Troops, becauſe of the great Quantity of Proviſions buying up to fill their Magazines in that Country.

They write from Madrid, that their Catholick Majeſties and all the Royal Family, arrived on the 11th ult. at the Eſcurial from the Palace of St. Ildephonſo. As for Don Joſeph Patinho, the Prime Miniſter and Secretary of State, his Fever returned with ſuch Violence on the 26th of Sept. at Night, that he grew worſe and worſe every Day, ſo that on the 4th of October, they thought fit to give him the Extreme Unction: And the King, to convince him of his particular Eſteem, and how much he was obliged to that worthy Miniſter for the great Services he had done to the State, ſent him a Diploma on the ſame Day, with the Title of a Grandee of Spain of the firſt Claſs, for him and his Deſcendants; and alſo diſpatched a Warrant, whereby he grants a Penſion of 1500 Crowns a Year to his Niece, the Counteſs de Fuenclara, Wife to his Majeſty's Ambaſſador at Venice. Don Patinho remain'd in the ſame Condition the next Day; but on the 6th he ſeem'd to be out of Danger; yet in the Evening he grew worſe again, and continued ſo till the 10th: Nevertheleſs he had a long Conference with the French Ambaſſador, the Marquis de Vaugrenan, who went to ſee him on the 9th, and then he ſeem'd very ſenſible, and talk'd pretty heartily; but on the 11th, which was the Day that the Court left St. Ildephonſo, he ſeem'd to be again at the Point of Death; before the Court ſet out, there was a Conſultation of ſeveral Phyſicians, in which it was reſolv'd, that the Prince of Aſturias's firſt Phyſician, ſhou'd ſtay behind to aſſiſt the other Phyſicians and Surgeons in their Care of the Patient, (who has made a Preſent to Cervi, the Queen's Phyſician, of a Ring worth 3000 Pieces of Eight for his Attendance on him) beſides a Secretary of each of the Five grand Offices of the Kingdom, to take that Miniſter's Direction, at ſuch Intervals when he is able to hear Talk of Buſineſs.

There are ſome Advices, that he was given over by his Phyſicians on the 6th, and that he died the 9th at Night; but Letters from Madrid of the 19th, by the Way of Paris ſay, he was then living, tho' ſo very weak that there was no Hopes of his Recovery.

One of the foreign Writers gives this Account of him. 'Don Joſeph Patinho, was originally a Milaneſe and had two Brothers, one known by the Name of the Marquis Caſtellar, who was twice the King of Spain's Ambaſſador in France, and died a few Years ago; but the other is ſtill living, and has an Abbey in the Lomeline; having a natural Genius for Buſineſs, he enter'd very young into a religious Order, which has the Reputation, whether true or not, of having a very great Share in the temporal Concerns of Europe: But as he was to act his Part bareface'd on the Theatre of the Univerſe, the ſame divine Providence which had limited his ſpiritual Vocation to a certain Number of Years, took him out of that Order when thoſe Years were expired; ſo that from Rome where he then was, he went to Milan, and from Milan to Paris, from whence his Brother, the Spaniſh Ambaſſador there at that Time, ſent him to Spain, where he was ſoon after employed in the Navy Office. He firſt began to be taken Notice of towards the Cloſe of the Adminiſtration of Cardinal Alberoni, and his Merit blaz'd out in ſuch a Degree under that of Ripperda, that after the ſaid Duke's Diſgrace, it was not long before he had a Share with the Marquis de la Paz in the Management of all Affairs under the Queen's Direction. The Journey of their Majeſties to the Portugueſe Frontier, and the long Stay of the Court afterwards for a political Reaſon at Saville, gave him an Opportunity to raiſe himſelf by Degrees upon the Ruins of the Marquis de Paz. After this, Don Joſeph Patinho was ſole Maſter at the Helm, with the Title of Secretary of all the Diſpatches, and he wou'd have died with Pleaſure, ſays our Author, if he could have brought about his grand Point in View, viz. the Reduction of his Native Country, under the Dominion of Spain.'

Some of the Merchants at Cadiz, have Copies of a Letter which Captain Lynſlager, the Perſon who is nominated Ambaſſador from the States to the Emperor of Morocco, dated from Gibratar the 24th of Sept. laſt, and written to the Baſhaw of Tetuan, wherein he declares the extreme Surprize of their High Mightineſſes, to find that the Emperor, who ſeem'd ſo well inclin'd to a Peace and Friendſhip with them, is now ſo backward to renew the ſaid Peace, or to releaſe their Subjects out of Slavery. They write, that the Capt. has been ſo compaſſionate and generous, as to ſend a Ducat to every one of the Dutch Slaves in the Morocco Empire.
